

Lecture 2 - Samples:

Graph A: The graph below shows the consumption of fish and different kinds of meat in a European country between 1979 and 2004.

- The line graph shows variations in the weekly consumption of fish and three types of meat in one European country from 1979 to 2004.
- The chart gives information on the amounts of meat and fish eaten weekly per person during the period from 1979 to 2004 in a European country.
- The graph shows changes in the amounts of beef, lamb, chicken and fish consumed in a particular European country between 1979 and 2004.
- The graph shows how the consumption of beef, lamb, chicken and fish changed in a European country over the years from 1979 to 2004.

Graph B: The graph below shows the number of tourists visiting a particular Caribbean island between 2010 and 2017.

- The graph shows how many people travelled to an island in the Caribbean on an annual basis from 2010 to 2017.
- The chart shows the number of people who traveled to a Caribbean island and stayed there in comparison to the number of those who went there via cruise ship during the period from 2010 to 2017.
- The chart gives a breakdown of how many people visited a Caribbean island from 2010 to 2017 in terms of those who stayed on the island and those who got there via cruise ship.